2005 ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Implementing Strategies for Food Protection and Defense

Striking a Balance

2005 Program at a Glance

In recent years the concept of the American Dream has been challenged. In some areas of our lives, our sense of security has diminished and we have awakened to the fact that the things we hold dear and used to take for granted are now, and have always been, vulnerable. We are a country of dreamers and more importantly achievers...the solution to these challenges is within our grasp. By pooling our resources and implementing new strategies, we will again find strength and confidence in our systems of protection.

This year's conference brings together some of our nation's leading subject area experts in food safety and security. We will be demystifying food defense, reviewing the National Incident Management System, discussing the significance of food and agriculture security, national infrastructure protection and most importantly how the states interplay. We will experience the latest tool in the battle for information dissemination – the NFALC web site, which features laboratory profiling for efficient and expedient response in the event of an emergency. We will also be learning about established innovative state and local food safety and security initiatives. A table-top exercise that will simulate the challenges faced in the event of a breach of our food safety and security systems will be an experience to remember.

Additionally, there will be a great deal of information shared on the MethWatch program, drugs and devices bioterrorism program, cosmetic industry GMPs and accredited third party inspections.

Afternoon Drugs/Devices Session

Liberty

Presiding: Ballard H. Graham, Divisional Vice President, Global Compliance, Abbott Laboratories

- 1:30 – 3:00 PM Overview of the MethWatch Program and the Kansas Experience
 Started in Kansas as a public-private partnership, MethWatch was developed to help curtail the suspicious sale and theft of pseudoephedrine-containing medicines, as well as other precursor products, used in the illegal manufacturing of methamphetamine in small toxic labs. Based on the Kansas model, the Consumer Healthcare Products Association developed a national program and funding opportunities to help those states interested in implementing the MethWatch program.

Morning General Session

Century A & B

Presiding: John Tilden, Food Safety Manager, Food and Dairy Division, Michigan Department of Agriculture

- 8:00 – 8:45 AM The National Incident Management System
 Historically, incident management has been a concept incorporated into the activities associated with traditional first-responders in disaster situations. However, the significantly increased focus on our homeland security has necessitated a change in how we view incident management. Learn about the National Incident Management System (NIMS) and its importance and necessity from the food and agriculture perspectives.
Tom McGinn, DVM, Medical Advisor, Department of Homeland Security
- 8:45 – 9:45 AM Food and Agriculture Security: Are They on the Radar Screens of Our State Homeland Security Directors?
 An interactive panel discussion with the audience on food and agriculture security and the critical significance of maintaining these issues on the radar screens of our State Homeland Security Directors.

Cameron Smoak, AFDO President/Representative to the GCC
- 11:00 – 11:30 AM Communications, Information Sharing and the Homeland Security Information Network
 Whether dealing with warning, prevention, preparation, response, mitigation, or recovery, the ability to communicate and share information is an essential component for enhancing the safety and security of our food supply. The Department of Homeland Security's Homeland Security Information Network is a nation-wide means of secure communications over the Internet designed for information sharing across federal, state and local government jurisdictions and with the private sector. The Homeland Security Information Network can provide a low cost means for near real time food safety and security communications and information exchange.
C. Patrick Duecy, Partner, Homeland Solutions, Inc.
- 11:30 – 12:00 Noon National Security's Grand Central Station – Food Security at Your Fingertips
 AFDO has recently enhanced its website with interactive resources and a food security component that is expected to become the "Go To" website for food security information. New capabilities include discussion forums, chat rooms and other secure features such as profiling the capabilities of user agencies nationwide, to enable a significant level of improvement for communications on food security issues.
William R. Krueger, Director of Laboratory Services, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, and Core Director for Laboratories and Diagnostics, DHS, National Center for Food Protection and Defense
- NOON – 1:00 PM MCAFDO Business Luncheon Pershing East

SILENT AUCTION

Opens Sunday, June 5, 2005 at 12:00 PM

Closes Tuesday, June 7, 2005 at 5:30 PM

For all first-time attendees, and all who have not experienced our silent auction, we are sure that you will find this event worthwhile and fun! The auction opens at 12:00 on Sunday, June 5, 2005, and closes at 5:30 on Tuesday, June 7, 2005. You will find almost every imaginable item from a variety of companies and attendees. You will have the opportunity to silently bid on as many items as you desire, and to bid as often as you like. Be sure to check the progress of your bid throughout the days of the conference.

Please check with the AFDO staff at the registration desk for the location of the Silent Auction if you wish to donate items. Help make this year's silent auction a huge success by donating a souvenir, keepsake gift or novelty item, or by bidding on any item in the auction. All proceeds of this auction will be donated to the AFDO Scholarship Fund.
